now amounts to about $\frac{1}{2}$ an acre. The circumstances attending the history of these bonds are peculiarly aggravating, and tax lighting taxiners certainly have the sympathy of the best people in Central Illinois. The bonds, to the extent of $25,000, were originally word in 1669 in aid of the then Oriman, Cliuson & Spring: field Railroad. The supervisar of this township, however, never mound the bonds to that company. He was mandamused by the supreme court, but disobeyed the order. The road then went into the hands of Receiver Hinckley, and litigation was countried Finelty the court took the road from Binchley and put it in the hands of certain represents tives of the English first-mortgage bond-holders. Then, under the advice of Col. Tom Snell, of Cilnton, the supervisor is used the bonds and denvered them to Special Master Prince, of McLean county. Snell and the supervisor got an agreed case submitted, by which the bonds were turned over to one C.P. Mackey, a man never seen or heard of in these parts, and supposed to be a myth. These bonds bear date Dec. 12, 1874, and had annexed three sets of 10 per cent, coupung, all failbear date Dec. 12, 1874, and had annexed three sets of ity per cont. compung, at failing due on the same day, which the taxing due on the same day, which the taxing there say make the bonds illegal. Shell, Weldon and others turned up as owners of the honds, clipped off the coupons, and, bringing suit in the United States Court, recovered an interest judgment against the township for about $2,000. The supervisor allowed the judgment to go by default, and it is this sum which is now extended on the tax books against go by default, and it is this sum which is now extended on the tax books against. Harp township lands. That there was no violent outbreak is largely due to C. H. Miore, Win. Fuller, Oraham, Warner, Ex-Sensior Donahue and other leading citizens, who counseled neace and a submission to the laws. The probabilities are now highly favorable for a composite of interest. rate of interest. Gone to the Pen.

A CHILD'S FANCIES. BY BREEDA AUBERT. After the shower one day in June Gracic, humming a funny tune, Stood at the window watching the sky. And the ileecy clouds as they burried by.

Faster and faster, a snowy heap, They followed each other like milk-white

The sun looked out, and with finger of light Turned a few drops to a relubow bright. This Gracie saw with a sudden cry, "mod's dropping a ribbon out of the sky!"

A gust of wind shook the locust trees Till the raindrops fell like a swarm of bees. Then she turned with a smile that was half a frown As the gittering drops went flying down, And looking at me with wondering eyes.
"O aubtic, see how each green leaf cries!"

KEEP some oat meal on the washstand, and as often as the hands are washed, rub a little of the oat meal over them; then rinse it off, and when dry put on a little bit of pomade made as follows: Take three penny worth of white wax, three ditto of spermaceti, three ditto powdered camphor, and olive oil enough to make it the thickness of soap; put it in a gallipot, and let it stand n an oven to melt; mix it up, and when cold it will be found very good for the hands. Gloves worn either in the day or night, will help to keep the hands white.
